POETICAL.

Spring.

The winter winds and storms are past,
The early blasts are blown,
The voice of Spring is heard at last,
In blithe and joyous tone;
The little streams, from frost set free,
With gladdening music sing;
The south wind comes with songs of glee,
To welcome in the Spring.

The heart of earth its foliage wide
Unfolds like summer's rose;
Through wood and stream a quickening tide
Of life and beauty flows;
The light of May is on the sky,
Its sunshine on the wing,
While winter's shades and shadows fly
To welcome in the Spring.

The flowers are gently springing up
On hillside and on lawn,
The daisy and the buttercup
Breathe in the balm of morn;
The rills and brooks soft answer make
To birds on soaring wing,
The mingling strains of nature wake
To welcome in the Spring.

I list me to the cheering song
Of robbin and the wren,
The mocking bird and jocund throng
Of warblers in the glen;
The winds and zephyrs too rejoice,
While every living thing
On earth outpours a grateful voice
To welcome in the Spring.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A SENTIMETAL LOAFER AT NIAGARA FALLS.

We were exceedingly amused—says the Albany Dutchman—at the air and manner of a decided "loafer," a sentimentalist withal, and a toper, who had come out of his way from Buffalo to see the Falls.

"Landlord!" said he, to the Boniface of the Cataract, "and you, gentlemen, who stand on this porch witnessing this pitiless rain, you see before you one who has a tempest of sorrows a-beating upon his head continually. Wants I was worth twenty thousand dollars, and I driv the saddling profession. Circumstances after cases; now I wish to solicit charity. Some of you seem benevolent, and I do believe I am not destined to rank myself among those who could travel from Dan to Beersheba, and say all is barren. No: I have read Wolney's Ruins, Marshall's Life of Washington, and Pope's Essay on Man, and most of the literature of the day, as contained in the small newspapers. But the way I'm situated at present, is scandalous. The fact is, my heart is broke, and I'm just Ishmaelizing about the globe, with a sombre brow, and a bosom laden with wo. Who will help me—speak singly gentlemen—who will 'ease my grief and drive my cares away?' as Isaac Watts says, in one of his devotional poems."

No answer was returned. A general laugh arose. The pride of the mendicant was excited; rage got the better of his humility; and shaking his fist in the face of the bystanders, he roared out:

"You're all a pack of poor, ordinary common people. You insult honest poverty; but I do not hang my head for a' that," as Burns says. I will chastise any man here, for two three-cent drinks of Monagohale whiskey; yes, though I have but lately escaped shipwreck, coming from Michigan to Buffalo, and weak from loss of strength; yet I will whip the best of you. Let any of you come over to the Black Rock Railroad Depot, and I'll lick him like a d—n!"

"Never mind that," said one, "tell us about the shipwreck."

"Ah!" he continued, "that was a scene! Twenty miles out at sea, on the lake; the storm bustin' upon the deck: the waves, like mad tailors, making breeches over it continually; the lightnings a bustin' overhead, over the lee bow; every mast in splinters; every sail in rags; women a screamin'; farmers' wives, emigratin' to the west, calling for their husbands, and hell yawnin' all around. A good many were sea-sick; and one man, after casting forth every thing besides, with a violent retch, threw up his boots. Oh, gentlemen, it was awful! At length came the last and destructive blow. It struck the ship on the left side, in the neighborhood of the poop, and all at onst I felt something under us break away. The vessel was parting! One half the crew was drowned: passengers was praying, and commending themselves to heaven. I alone escaped the watery doom."

"And how did you manage to redeem yourself from destruction?" was the general inquiry.

"Why, gentlemen' the fact is, I seen how things was agoin', and I took my hat and went ashore!"

The last I saw of this Munchausen, was as our coach wheeled away. He had achieved a 'drink," and was perambulating through the mud, lightened momentarily of his sorrows.

LUTHER MARTIN AND THE YOUNG LAWYER.

We heard an anecdote of this distinguished lawyer, a few days ago, which we remembered to have met with in print, but which is so good that it will do to tell again.

Martin was on one occasion riding to Annapolis, in a stage-coach, in which was a solitary companion, a young lawyer, just commencing the practice of law. After some familiar conversation, the young gentleman said:

"Sir, you have been remarkably successful in your profession—few men have gained so many cases—will you communicate to me, a beginner, the secret of your wondrous success?"

"I'll do it, young man, on one condition, and that is, that you defray my expenses during my stay of a few days at Annapolis."

"Willingly," replied the young man, hoping to profit greatly by the communication.

"The secret of my success," said Martin, "may be discovered in this advice which I now give you, namely: Deny everything, and insist upon proof."

On reaching Annapolis, Luther Martin was not very self-denying in the enjoyment presented by a fine hotel, the substantials and general refreshments were dispatched in a manner quite gratifying to mine host. The time for return at length came. The man and Martin stood together at the bar, and demanded their respective bills.

Martin's was enormous, but on glancing at it, he quietly handed it to the young lawyer, who running his eye over it leisurely, returned it with the utmost gravity.

"Don't you intend to pay it?" said Martin.

"Pay what?" said the young lawyer.

"Why, pay this bill. Did you not promise on the route downward, that you would defray my expenses at the hotel?"

"My dear sir," said the young gentleman, "I deny everything, and insist upon proof."

Martin at once saw that he was caught, and eyeing his young friend a moment or two, he said, pleasantly, "You don't need any counsel from me, young man; you don't need any counsel from me."—Marlborough Gazette.

TOM HODGINGS AND THE WIDOW.

Not many squares from Tom's store in New Orleans, there lives a widow lady, who until recently, has been one of his "most particular friends." This lady had met Tom somewhere, and admiring his principles, and approving his circumstances, had come to the resolution of making him the husband of her daughter, a very pretty innocent girl of about fifteen. After making a resolution, Mrs. I was not the woman to hesitate in its execution. She manœuvred to have him attend her daughter at all the balls and soirees of the season to which she had access, and managed to take him to the theatre in their party on several occasions; and at church on Sunday, our friend was to be found occupying a place in her pew as regularly as "one of the family. And more than this she even opened an account at the store, and two or three times daily, in fine weather, Miss E. was despatched to purchase some indespensable nothing "that nobody could select but herself!"

Her plans worked admirably for about three months. Tom's attentions had been generally remarked, and the gossips of his acquaintance had long settled it among themselves that he was "in for it," and the good mother daily expected, and was constantly on the qui vive for a proposal.

This was the posture of affairs, when Tom called one evening about seven. He was shown in the parlor, and soon joined by the young lady. After a few moments of small talk, he requested her to be so good as to send her mother to him, as he wished to have a few minutes conversation with her on business. We acknowledge that there was a slight trembling of the hands visible as L. smoothed her hair to obey the summon. She had been successful! Yes! notwithstanding the sarcasms of the Widow M.; and the inuendoes of the Misses T.; and the opposition of the whole street, she had triumphed." These, and other thoughts of like pleasing complexion, caused her cheek to assume an unusual glow, and there was considerable elation in her step as she entered the room and affectionately greeted her future son-in-law.

We have intimated that Tom is honest and straightforward; and so without the least circumlocution or embarrassment, he at once approached the delicate matter.

"As I intend," opened our friend, "leaving for the North, the latter part of this week, I thought I had better have an understanding about matters."

"You are perfectly right,' replied the lady; "it is always best to settle such things as soon as possible. But have you spoken to my daughter?"

"Really, madam," answered Tom, "I have not. True, Miss E. is principally concerned in the matter—but she is so very young, that I thought it would rest wholly with you."

"Far from it—far from it," exclaimed the cunning mother. "The matter is left entirely to her and whatever she says, I will agree to!"

"In that case," said Tom, rising and putting his hand to his pocket, "I have only to leave the bill ——"

"Bill!—BILL! Sir!" screeched the widow

"Yes, ma'am; just $59 50—for articles purshased by Miss E. But why are you so surprised?"

"Because, sir—because I thought you —I thought—it—had—been paid, sir!" making an effort, but choaking with rage. And rising, she made a dignified inclination, after telling him she would send a servant with the money in the evening, and swept out of the room.

"I wonder," soliloquized Tom, on his return from New York, "what can be the matter with the I's. Miss E. was as cold as an icicle when I call on her the other evening, and to day the old lady gave me the cut direct? Some body must have been telling lies on me while I was gone. I am glad though she paid her bill," and he resumed his pen and scratched away at his books.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The undersigned is endeavoring to collect materials for a GAZETEER OF NORTH CAROLINA; a work whose object will be to present to the public an accurate historical, geographical and statistical account of the State. He is impressed with the belief that such a work, if properly executed, will serve a useful purpose; that it will furnish the best refutation of the calumnies heaped on the Commonwealth—will have some effect in correcting those sectional prejudices, which from the beginning, have exercised a baneful influence in the councils of the State—that, while it strengthens the attachment of the patriotic to their home, it may help to stay that tide of emigration on account of which N. Carolina has been heretofore but a nursery for other States.

Nature has denied to this region those navigable waters which bind together the extremes of other States and tempt the inhabitants to great enterprise, but as if to make up for its neglect she has bountifully supplied it with every kind of agricultural and mineral production, and all varieties or plesant and healthful climate and grand and beautiful scenery. These things, however, cannot here be known by the intermingling of the population on the cheap high-ways of commerce; and books must therefore supply the place of rivers, and scholars, authors and school-masters act as explorers. The undersigned believes that others will concur in these views; and is permitted to hope that the public will contribute its part towards the success of the enterprise in which he is engaged.

The work of a man's own hands is dearer to him than a gift which is the handiwork of another; and those who help to make a great State experience a satisfaction to which emigrants are never strangers. Besides, the expense and the sacrifices caused by the emigration from North Carolina for the last twenty years, would if judiciously invested in public works, have made the State a garden and have brought a market to every county; and thus, these self-exiled children of our commonwealth would have made a better State than those to which they have gone—would have been enabled to live in ease among the scenes of their childhood,—to have encountered the infirmities of age among their own people, and mingled their dust with that of their kindred in their Fatherland.

Such are some of the considerations which have prevented the undersigned from seeking his fortune in other States: and such considerations, he hopes, are beginning to weigh on the public mind.

He, therefore, respectfully invites special attention to the notice of the work on which he is engaged; and requests that those who can will communicate such information as may assist him in his undertaking. Historical notices of counties and towns—accounts of peculiarities of climate and soil, of remarkable yields in farming—and statistics of the wealth, productions, and exports of different places will be gratefully received. He would also be glad to get descriptions of the harbours, sandbars and inlets along the coast—and would be much gratified with views and sketches of scenery in this region, in the mountains, or in any other interesting localities. He desires that communications be signed with a real name: and, as his correspondence is very extensive and onerous, that his friends will be considerate in regard to postage.

He would earnestly remind those to whom he has sent circular letters of the importance of letting him hear from them in some way, so that he may not be deceived: and finally, ask of that most obliging and public-spirited of all classes, the Editors in North Carolina, to give this notice an insertion in their papers. He hopes that every Editor in the State will be kind enough to comply with this request; for every paper has readers who do not take any other paper and who are able to furnish some of the information desired.—The writer's address is Greensboro', N. C.

A CHANCE FOR DR. WEBSTER.—A bill has been introduced in the Senate of Massachusetts, which should it become a law, will probably save the life of Professor Webster. The bill provides that no person who may be hereafter sentenced to death shall be executed in less than one year and one day from the date of the sentence, nor until the whole records of the trial, &c. shall have been officially approved. The following section, however, is the one especially designed to meet Professor Webster's case:

"Any person under sentence of death at the time of the passing of this act, shall be committed to the state prison, there to be confined at hard labor, until the expiration of one year from the time of his sentence, and until the sentence of death shall be executed; and the Governor shall issue his warrant authorizing and requiring such commitment.

GOV. MANLY.—We have rarely, if ever, seen a more conclusive justification of a public officer than the authorized defence of Gov. Manly, from charges preferred by the Mountain Banner, a paper printed in the Western part of the State. It will be found in this paper, as copied from the Raleigh Whig papers.

We have known instances, often, when party spirit has led to the perpetration of gross injustice to a faithful public officer; and we have especially known such things to befal Gov. Manly, than whom no one was ever more abused upon less ground. But that a paper professing to belong to Gov. Manly's political party, and published in a whig county, should have perpetrated such a gross assault upon him, would seem to indicate either a singular want of correct information, or a very feeble attachment to the Whig party. We do what we can, by publishing the facts, to dispel fancy.—FAYETTEVILLE OBSERVER.

A BRIGHT GIRL.—"I have," writes a correspondent, "a pretty, bright, little juvenile friend, some five years of age, named Rosa. Some days ago, she was teased a good deal by a gentleman who visits the family, who finally wound up by saying, 'Rosa, I don't love you.' 'Ah but you've got to love me,' said the child. 'Why so?' asked her tormentor. 'Why,' said Rosa, 'the Bible says you must 'love them that hate you,' and I am sure I hate you!' Was that bad 'for a child?'

INDEED!—We may set it down as an axiom, that young ladies cannot know everybody's name, when it is utterly impossible for them to know what their own name may be in a twelvemonth hence!

FAMILIES SUPPLIED.—"I'll take two children if I can have 'em cheap," said a tall Yankee, on entering an oyster cellar in Canal street the other day.—"Two children!—what two children?" "Why, I hain't got any myself, your sign reads, 'Families Supplied' don't it? I want you to supply me with one."

☞ Mrs. Partington, while visiting the Museum the other day, on looking among the old Revolutionary relics and Scottish claymores, asked the superintendent if he had among his famous cutlery the axe of the Apostles.

CELEBRATION OF THE SONS OF TEMPERANCE IN NEWBERN.

We embarked on the Steamer New Wayne, at Waynesboro' on Tuesday week, accompanied by Messrs. Raboteau, Gorman, and Litchford, of Raleigh, and quite a number of other Sons from the different Divisions in the West, to attend the meeting of the Grand Division in New Berne. We arrived at Kinston, at noon, and there joined by a full delegation from Hookerton and Snow Hill Divisions—had a pleasant day on the river, with excellent accommodation, and arrived in Newbern at 6 o'clock P. M. We stopt at the New Bern Hotel, ate oysters, fish, and other good things of this life, until we were almost sick with high living.

On Wednesday evening, at 7 o'clock, a procession of the Sons was formed at their Hall, and moved to the Methodist Church, where a large number of Ladies and Gentlemen had assembled to witness the imposing ceremonies.

After prayer by the Pastor of the Baptist Church, Miss Stevenson presented a beautiful Banner to the New Berne Division, accompanied by a very eloquent and interesting speech. The Banner was received by Mr. Bobbitt, on behalf of the Sons, who responded in an appropriate address.

A letter was read by Mr. Raboteau, of Raleigh, from H. W. Miller, Esq. stating the cause of his absence. Mr. Raboteau then addressed the audience, for about 40 minutes in an able, eloquent, and argumentative speech He portrayed the evils of intemperance—the design of the Order of the Sons—and the success that had crowned their efforts.

Mr. Gorman then entertained the assemblage in a very neat and animating address. He gave a history of the organization and progress of the Sons, and depicted in glowing colors the evils of intemperance. Mr. Gorman was quite flowery. He strewed our pathway with flowers, fanned us with his odoriferous breeze, and left us enchanted and highly delighted. We would be glad to do justice to the Speakers, but our time and space will not admit of it. During the different stages in the ceremonies, the audience was entertained by highly interesting ballads, sung by Messrs. Gulick, Dissosway, Clark and others. The utmost decorum prevailed during the exercises, though the building was crowded almost to suffocation.

The procession then formed again, with transparencies, and moved through the principal streets to the Hall, where the ceremonies were closed, and the Sons parted in Love, Purity and Fidelity.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT —By and with the advice and consent of the Senate.—Neil S. Brown, of Tennessee, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to the Court of His Majesty the Emporer of all the Rusias.

Edward H. Wright, of New Jersey, to be Secretary of Legation of the United States at the Court of His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of all the Rusias.

John D. Diomatari, of Georgia, to be Consul of the United States for the port of Athens, in Greece.

NEW STEAMER.

We had the pleasure, while in Newbern, of seeing the new Steam Boat the Messrs. Dibble are having built, and which will soon be ready to put on the Neuse. It is 105 feet long, and will draw 7 inches. The engine intended for it will be about 35 horse power. It is no doubt the right kind of a boat for the Neuse, and will pay well.

FALL IN COFFEE.—About 50,000 bags of Coffee have recently been sold in New York and New Orleans, at 8 cts.

☞The following article, copied from the Knoxville Whig, and edited by a Methodist Clergyman, relative to Messrs. Stanly and Hilliard, we commend to the consideration of our Methodist friends:

MR. STANLY—THE METHODISTS.

We are sorry to see that the Hornet's Nest, a North Carolina paper, is denouncing the Hon. EDWARD STANLY, for remarks he should have made in reply to MR. HILLIARD, of Alabama. MR. H. is a Methodist Preacher, of high standing, and the "Hornet's Nest" represents Mr. Stanly as calling his brethren in the Ministry "hundred dollar fellows," in an "opprobrius" and "deriding" sense. The man of the Hornet's Nest must be maliciously disposed towards Mr. Stanly, or he would not seek by misrepresenting facts, to excite the Methodist of the Old North State, against him. Certainly the Editor of that paper is not the guardian of the Methodist Church by Divine appointment. Mr. Stanly is a true Whig, a gallant fellow—was raised a Methodist—and has a brother in the Ministry of the Methodist Church. And instead of abusing the Methodist Ministry as falsely accused by this North Carolina Editor, he passes the highest eulogy upon them—one that every Methodist should be proud of, delivered, as it was, on the floor of Congress. We are a Methodist, and thank Mr. Stanly for the just and well-timed compliment he has paid our church.

TEMPERANCE CELEBRATION AT HOOKERTON.

We were present at Hookerton on Wednesday last, at the Celebration of the Sons of Temperance. Quite a large number were present from the Division at this place, and Snow Hill. At 12 o'clock, a procession was formed at the Division Room, and moved through the principal streets of the town to the Church, where a large number of ladies and gentlemen had assembled to hear the speeches. The exercises were opened by singing and prayer, after which, the Rev. Mr. Chaffin entertained the audience for about an hour, with an argumentative and interesting speech. The speaking over, the procession again formed, and moved to the residence of a brother, where a sumptuous dinner had been prepared by the Hookerton Division.

At early candle light, a procession was again formed and marched to the Church, each bearing a beautiful transparency in his hand. After singing and prayer, Rev. N. A. Hooker, Samuel Pearce, and others, entertained the audience with highly interesting speeches. After which, the procession moved thro' the streets to the Division room.

The Snow Hill and North State Divisions, returned thanks to the Hookerson Division, for the very kind manner in which they had been entertained.—And after a few speeches in the Division Room, the Sons seperated in L. P. & F.

J. W. HARGRAVE, Sign Painter and Brand and Stamp Cutter, Lowell, Johnston county, N. C. We have seen some of Mr. Hargrave's work, and think it cannot be excelled in the State.

'HON. EDWARD STANLY DEAD.'

Some of the Locofocos, after a hard struggle to kill off Mr. Stanly, have at length raised themselves up about six feet in their boots, and exclaimed from the top of their voices, that "Mr. Stanly is dead!" without showing any premonitory symptons of disease. Even the illegitimate press, (the Hornet's Nest) has reiterated and endorsed the statement, and seems not to know "who Edward Stanly is." We would suppose he was dead, from the manner he presumes to speak of him, as the only animal ever known to kick a dead lion, was more remarkable for the length of his ears than the quantity of his brain.

Mr. Stanly is stronger in this District to-day than he ever was before. His recent speech was greedily seized by the Locofocos, and misconstrued to make capital of, but the people have seen the cue, and come out with that independence which has ever characterized them, while the slanderers of Mr. Stanly are skulking under the bushes, cringing at the dread of their own shadows.

FIRE AT WARSAW.

A fire, which is supposed to be the result of accident, took place at Warsaw, on Friday night last. The Company's Warehouse, Wood Shed, and Water Station were all consumed. Loss about $1000. Some 6 hhds. Molasses, some Salt and a few other articles were in the Ware House.—Wil. Commercial.

TEMPERANCE.

A petition signed by fifteen hundred females, was lately presented to the city council of Buffalo, praying that licenses for the sale of intoxicating drinks be denied, and that every violation of the excise-law be rigorously punished.

[From our Washington Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D. C. May 6.

Dear Sir—I am in receipt of yours of 27th ult., and have well considered the contents.

I know, and I believe it is well known to the public, the great anxiety you feel, and the many sacrifices you are willing to undergo, to cater for the tastes of the reading community among which your lot is cast. Your offer is certainly very liberal, and were I willing to entertain any proposition to become the organ of a paper here, yours should have the preference. There is, however, a difference of opinion between us, as to the importance attached to "a Washington Correspondent." I can never consent to bind myself as "a penny-a-liner" to serve up all the gossip and scandal afloat, or manufacture it when not ready made to hand. I write for my own amusement first—to please a friend next—and third, if that friend thinks my letters will afford amusement or instruction to his readers, it flatters me to secure his good opinion, and be instrumental in advancing his interest. It may not be correct taste, but my aim is to write a plain neighborhood letter, such as I should be glad to receive were I in ——— and had a friend in Washington. I cannot boast of being behind the curtain, or in any body's secret, and if such were the case, shame would prevent my writing and publishing to the world that I committed fraud and broke confidence. When the business and the pleasure which keeps me here at present allows me the time, and when disposition leads me to exercise the pen, you are welcome to my services. The trade of a paid letter writer I cannot assume.

This letter writing trade, however, is not to be despised. The corps is more numerous than respectable. There are representatives of the press for every corner of our vast extended country.—Many are no doubt very honorable and high minded men, and would be classed among the literati of the country. Many more are mere caterers to the vilest passions of the multitude, paying little regard to truth so that a spicey article is furnished, and their per line secured.

The N. Y. Herald is notorious for its numerous and unscrupulous force—but by some means Bennet is well served, and although many shots miss, as many hit as do from any other band of musketeers.

The New York Tribune has another set, or rather a part of the same corps, and keep up a regular and hot fire, little caring whether it is miss or hit. If you examine carefully, you may frequently detect the same writer in half a dozen papers, under half a dozen aliases: Thus—"Veritas," "Viator," and "Independent," advancing directly opposite principles, according to the climate, are one and the same. Sometimes they quarrel and serve one another up in such style, as would lead you to fear a murderous duel would be the consequence. Dismiss your fear, it is only Mr. H* playing dummy Backgammon, his right hand against his left.

The New York Express has also its regular team, and some volunteers, which occasionally lead the Editor, "good easy man," into difficulties, as in "A. B. C's." attack on the Cabinet. In one of your numbers, you express surprise that so respectable a Whig paper should publish that letter, but such is the prevailing taste for Washington scandal, that even respectable papers publish anything and every thing, that comes in that shape.

The regular correspondent of the Express is "Juvenal." This is an evident misnomer. It should have been Juvenile. The juvenility of all his productions sticks out a feet.

But I cannot go through the regiment, it is a strong army. Washington is full of them. Some eke out by this means a salary incompetent to their support, and these receive the abuse of Father Ritchie as the Swiss corps, which his sanguinary temper leads him to represent as likely to overthrow our Constitution. Does he suppose the world has forgotten that while his partner, Burke, was an office-holder, he wrote the famous "Bundlecund" letters?

Do you exchange with the Baltimore Sun? If you do not, you miss one of the best papers in the States, and you should put yourself in communication at once. Their letters from here are bona fide—faithful, and having no party lean or local clique to gratify, may be depended on with certainty. They evidently aim at truth and justice, without discoloration. With X. Mr. G*, the world is acquainted as a ready writer, a business man, and a perfect gentleman.

It may appear a matter of surprise to your unsophisticated neighbors, that so many of these letter writers are prophecying the downfall of the Cabinet. The explanation lies in a nut-shell. Every one of them is or has been seeking office. They come here uncompromising Whigs, and find that others have the luck of them, and that they perhaps have valued themselves higher than the public has estimated them. That all cannot be office-holders because there are not offices enough for all—hence they are anxious to have men who have not duly appreciated their talents and services turned out, knowing no change can make their condition worse, and possibly some revolution may better it.

The writings of these men are published by country and city newspapers with avidity, and help to effect the purpose for which they are written, giving a bias to "public opinion."

It is from such sources the impression is abroad, that dissentions exist in the Cabinet, and that leading Whigs are daily failing in the support of the old Hero, the President. What ground exists for them to base their assertions on, may be seen by any one who will take the pains to peruse the proceedings of either House. There you will find that in every question which comes up as a party question, every man who can be considered as belonging to the Whig party proper, fully sustains the Executive. This is the best evidence, and the only evidence the country should receive of the unfailing popularity of the President. Let the grumblers and the disappointed say what they please, Gen. Taylor has, and I trust ever will have, the party and the people with him.

There have been in every government which ever existed, appointments made, which may be termed unfortunate—such for instance as the nomination of James Watson Webb, but although many Whigs considered this and a few other selections, injudicious, still they are not disposed to class themselves among an opposition on that account, but are willing to excuse and over look such venial errors, and attribute it to the real cause, the outward pressure of disingenious friends.

I am not disposed to believe neither, that every act of every Cabinet Minister has met the decided approval of the President. But the nation knows, the world knows, if he, the President, once suspects an officer under him of disregard to public justice and public good, out he goes. When such things are demonstrated, then look for a change in the Cabinet.

The prospect of a fair and equitable settlement of the Slavery question, brightens every day. The outline given in my last will form the basis. It is surprising how fast the turbulent waters of strife are subsiding. At first it was said none of the Northern members of the House would sustain the Committee if they made that report, and it was intimated the Committee itself would be divided. Now it is known the Committee will report unanimous, and more than 30 Northern Members of the House will support them. Benton, with a few Senators, will rage and roar, but rest assured the day of agitation is past, and our Union cemented, our government stronger than ever.

In the House, little has been done for a week. Indeed, every thing is suspended for the present, but when business comes up, a better spirit, a kinder feeling is perceptible. A movement is on foot to give some relief to the Volunteer Officers of the late war. This is just, and should be done. Many of them spent much money and suffered all manner of hardships, and came home with nothing. There is no justice in retaining from them the poor pittance of land bounty given to their more fortunate comrades, who served in the ranks.

The papers of North Carolina should call on the brave fellows, not to beg, but demand justice. Tell the Adjutant it is his business to call them to their colors, and parade them for the onset. The voice of "old Blucher" has cheered us many a time and oft, and we will rally to it again. Tell him, God bless him, I'm the boy whom he found at Rinconada, foot blistered, spirit broken, and forlorn—whom he revived by a glorious swig at his canteen, and a cup of cold water, brought from the deep ravine at the risk of his life, and saved my life by poking me into a baggage wagon.—May he live a thousand years, and grow better, happier, and richer, every day. I add the last wish for the benefit of his friends, as if he were rich, every good fellow about him would be rich too.

Yours, &c. M.

COMMUNICATIONS.

For the North Carolina Telegraph.

Mr. Editor—You will, perhaps, be surprised, that an avowed Democrat should apply to you for a favor which he would not solicit at the hands of his co-political Editors. His reason for doing so is, our Democratic press is appearing to sacrifice every patriotic feeling on the demon altar of ephemeral popularity; and the half-lick'd demagogues of our party, by the selfish game they play off in the face of a not-too-clearly-discerning population, will undoubtedly compel the conservative portion of our Democrats into the Whig ranks, or to a state of quiescent neutrality; or, which is the same in effect with the latter, to form an inefficient body by themselves.

Premising thus, permit me to lay before the public a brief sketch of the "captivating topics" brought forward by my Democratic brethren, and which are intended to be again strenuously urged or insisted upon, in the ensuing Gubernatorial Election.

Every man—i. e., every white man's right to vote is a most alluring "gathering-word," and especially in our republican form of government—where men claim a "blessed equality—it has a most bewitching influence, increased a little if you please, coming from the lips of a euphonious orator in a stump speech.

But our "Constitution" has it that "all men are created equal," hence, all men have a right, an inalienable right to vote. And those who hold the property qualification requisite, are sneeringly replied to in the expressive words used by Dr. Franklin on a similar point when he proved that the man's ass, and not himself, had the right to vote. Now, this is all very good, Mr. Editor, and I for one would despise the ninney who would acknowledge the superiority of his ass in an intellectual point of view, aye, or even in a political. And equally would despise the imperious aristocrat who'd dare to cast a supercilious glance upon the poor man as he stepped up to the ballot-box to record his vote:—and all this upon the principle of our immutable constitution—"all men are created equal."

There is an inherent principle in the nature of man—an aspiring propensity in the most abject of the human family, to deny a superior—to acknowledge inferiority to none of his race; and this principle would be as correct as it is natural, if all men lived as they have been and are created, EQUAL.—But, alas!—and every philanthropist will say alas! and every patriot will reiterate a heart-felt alas, for our depraved nature, that our equality does not long continue. In our infancy we are equal, but who can trace the equality in manhood? If so, there is then an equality between virtue and vice, between freedom and tyranny, between equals and unequals, between God and Satan. It is, indeed, to be regretted, that a man's poverty should militate against his rights, but as Pope has it, "all partial evil is universal good," or as some of your cotemporaries would perhaps express it—"Qui compte sans son hote, il lui convient compter deux fois;" or "Chi fa conto senza l'hoste conte due volte." But I hate quotations for the mere display of erudition, and few of our piney woods-men study classics; besides the English language is quite sufficient to prove that the man whose politics, at sight of a "tickler," could be tickled into the ranks of any party, mean enough to make the purchase, should have no vote in the State—not for even a constable! Is it not surprising that men of property could be dazzled into the idea of vesting an habitual drunkard, &c., &c., with the authority of imposing taxes on real estate! I tell you, Mr. Editor, such cannot, must not be the case. I know free suffrage is got up for an electioneering bait, but it will not take if you but give me permission from time to time to offer advice to the people through your columns. A DEMOCRAT.

SOUTHERN RIGHTS

VINDICATED!!!!!

"The all important crisis which was about to have arisen, have aroven." In consequence of the unparallelled and outrageous conduct of the whole body of the Northern people in sending ships on the coast of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, and other Southern States, by which thousands and tens of thousands of our slaves are daily, "wilfully, maliciously, and feloniously" captured and taken from plantations by the crews of said ships, against the peace and "dignity" of the States, and carried off, in consequence also, of the abolition of slavery in a number of the Southern States by some of the Legislatures of the Northern States, and numerous meetings which the abolitionists have gotten up, and the passage of the "Wilmot Proviso" by Davy, Giddings, Root, and others of that stripe in Congress, upon all the states and territories, and divers other insurmountable and insupportable grievances and aggressions, which have recently (since 7th Nov. 1848) been committed and are continually being committed, it became a matter of urgent, absolute, and indispensable necessity, that A DISTRICT CONVENTION OF THE PEOPLE should "convene and organize" in the town of Newbern, on the 24th day of April, that our rights, our wrongs, &c. &c., should be amply vindicated and redressed. Such then, has been the intense interest and excitement manifested, in consequence, among the great mass of the southern people, that meetings have been held in TWO counties of the District, appointing delegates, and I understand that ONE of those was regularly in attendance at the time and place appointed, patiently awating the arrival of his co-laborers who had been appointed by the "sovereign people," and to whose charge exclusively had been committed the weighty and more important matter of Southern Rights. Finding no other delegate, he betook himself to a consultation with some of those whose fire-eating propensities had originally ushered the movement into existence, whereupon a systematic game of craw-fishing commenced, which being rather repugnant to his natural feelings, was now compelled to throw himself back on his own responsibility. And not being able to find even a second, I presume he adjourned, sine die, to meet however at the Nashville Convention, with hopes as to the result, where things will be "done up in a rag," and no mistake.

Thus, sir, has passed off our Southern Rights Convention, caused by so many impositions of the North. Truly must the Southern people feel much aggrieved at what has passed, that they should thus, en masse, make such signal demonstrations in behalf of their rights. These fire-eating, blood and thunder men, must feel highly gratified that the people have given such encouragement to their disinterested patriotism. What consummate traitors the people must be.

But seriously, sir, and to conclude, I really hope, that this and other equally significant manifestations will teach disunionists, abolitionists, and agitators of all kinds and in all sections, that the passions of the people are not as easily wrought upon as they suppose, and although their patriotism may lead them in a different way, yet the hearts of the people will always be right. ONE OF THE PEOPLE.

ENCOURAGING.

It affords us gratification to state that the Wilmington and Raleigh Rail Road Company, for the past six months, have been doing a fine and increasing business, and we have understood that for the past month of April, the increase of receipts on the northern travel alone, was 172 per cent. over any similar month since the Company has been in operation.—Aurora.

Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun.

WASHINGTON, May 6, 1850.

The city is flooded with startling rumors, some of which have probably, ere this, reached the press. They are plausible enough, but egregiously erroneous. One is, that an exclusive Southern paper is to be started by persons known and respectable; another that Gen. Taylor is hostile to the compromise; another that a strong political movement is to be made against the Cabinet by the whigs in Congress, &c. I shall not be much surprised at any events in these times.

Congress will soon take the usual May recess, in order to allow time for putting the halls of the Senate and House in summer trim. The compromise committee are not prepared to report. Mr. Mason, of Va., resists the scheme contemplated by the committee. Some of the Southern men in the House will, it is feared, resist the scheme. We are not out of the woods. We shall witness a severe struggle in the House when the subject comes up.

The House, with commendable impartiality, have instituted a searching inquiry into the peccadilloes of the Polk administration—the defalcations, the various gulping allowances; letter-writers pensioned by them, &c. A committee of nine is to be appointed to go on this wild goose chase.

The present administration does not rely for its popularity upon their pensioned letter-writers. They have turned out every man who even wrote a line in their behalf, and served them right.

The popularity of the present administration required no such bolstering. The more it is contemned, the greater is its self satisfaction. Though the people may hiss, themselves they can applaud. * * * * * * ION.

BOSTON, May 4.

There was a large attendance at the Supreme Court this morning, to hear the arguments of counsel, on the application for a writ of error and new trial for Professor Webster, on account of an informality in the proceedings in bringing the case from the Municipal Court. I was in the Judges' lobby and heard the speeches, which were confined to law points. The Judges took the case under advisement, and no decision will be announced for several days.

STUNG BY A HORNET.

We met with a sting this week from the chief Hornet in a certain nest in North Carolina, in the shape of a complaint by a certain editor, J. L. Badger, to the effect that we have quoted from him, without giving him due credit.

We gave the following verse, some time since and marked it as a quotation stating that it was from a "certain Book of Hymns:"

"There was an old captain his name was Ned,
As brave as brave could be,
He fought in his dreams, each night in bed,
But never awake fought he."

This verse, Editor Badger claims to have composed, among other verses he "composed on various private devotional occasions for especial service."

Now we found the verse in the "Little Falls Songster;" published in 1838, by A. Fuller, at the office of West Jersey Amulet." On page 27 of this small book, is to be found the following verse:

"There was a capting his name was Jo,
As brave as brave could be,
He fought in his dreams all night you know,
But never awake fought he!"

Now, whether Fuller borrowed from Badger, or Badger from Fuller, we have no right to say. Fuller states in his "Preface," that his is "a choice collection," of "Yankee and Western Songs." If, therefore, Badger were a poet prior to 1838, or more than 12 years ago, he certainly has all underholts upon Fuller. Still, in contest between them for the honor of originating this poetic, literary and sublime verse, we claim the right to be neutral, with the privilege of exclaiming in the language of a gallant female, on a memorable occasion—"Go it husband—go it bear!"—Brownlow.

A DAUGHTER'S LOVE.

There is no one so slow to note the follies or sins of a father as a daughter. The wife of his bosom may fly in horror from his embrace, but his fair-haired child cleaves to him in boundless charity. Quickened by the visitation of pain to the paternal dwelling, her prayers are more brief, but more earnest—her efforts doubled and untiring—and she can but win a transient smile from that sullen and gloomy face she is paid—oh! how richly paid!—for all her sleepless cares and unceasing labor. The father may sink from deep to deep—from a lower to yet a lower depth—Satan's kinsman and Satan's prey. Those who, in a happier hour, received largely of his benefactions, may start when they behold his shadow, and accelerate their pace to get beyond it—all, may forsake him—God and the world—all but satan—and his daughter. Poor child! if thou canst not save, thy feeble torch, made as bright as thy power canst make it, throws, at least a flickering light upon the path, till the object of thy unquenchable love has forever left thee, and is shrouded in the thick darkness; and when undone—when gone from thee, and gone forever—though thou mayst wed thy early love, and know in him all that thy young heart pictured, yet, again and again, in the midst of thy placid joy even with thy smiling infant on thy knee, the lost one will not all be forgotten. Seeing the past, as it were only yesterday, forgetful of thy little darling, thou wilt exclaim, from the depths of thy ever mindful and affectionate spirit "My father! oh! my father!"

U. S. Attorney General.—The Intelligencer accords great praise to the Hon. Reverdy Johnson for the ability he has displayed in two recent suits, by which decisions have been obtained which save ten millions of dollars to the country. The first was a case before the U. S. Supreme Court, to test the validity of titles to an immense number of acres of land in the State of Louisiana, claimed under the old Spanish grants. The decision by the courts below had been against the United States, and Mr. Johnson's powerful argument was followed by a reversal of that decision. The second occurred on Friday last, in the case of Fleming and Marshall vs. Page, Collector of the United States. This case involved the great question of the legality of the collection of duties in Mexico before the treaty of peace, and the sum depending on it is said to have amounted to about seven millions of dollars. The case originated in Pennsylvania. The Court below had been unanimous against the Government. During the present term the case was argued before all the Judges of the Supreme Court by Messrs. McCall and Webster for the claimants, and by Mr. Johnson for the Government. The unanimous opinion of the Court was on Saturday given by Chief Justice Taney in favor of the United States, reversing the judgment below. The Attorney General's argument is said to have been unsurpassed for ability.—Bal. Sun.

POWERFUL REASONING.

At a young men's debating society somewhere down in Indiana, the question for discussion was, "Which is the greatest evil, a scolding wife or a smoky chimney." After the appointed disputants had concluded the debate, a spectator rose and begged the privilege of "making a few remarks on the occasion." Permission being granted, he delivered himself in this way: Mr President, I've been almost mad a listening to the debate of these 'ere youngsters. They don't know nothing at all about the subject. What do they know about the evils of a scolding wife? Wait till they have had one for twenty years, and been hammered, and jammed and slammed all the while, and wait till they've been scolded because the baby cried, because the fire wouldn't burn, because the oven was too hot, because the cow kicked over the milk, because it rained, because the sun shined, because the hens didn't lay, because the butter wouldn't come, because the old cat had kittens, because they came too soon for dinner, because they was one minute too late, because they sung, because they tore their trousers, because they invited a neighbor woman to call again, because they got sick, or because they did anything else, no matter whether they couldn't help it or not, or because they didn't do something else, no matter whether they could or not, before they talk about the evils of a scolding wife; why Mr. President, I'd rather hear the clatter of hammers and stones on twenty tin pans and nine brass kettles, than the din, din, din, of the tongue of a scolding wife. Yes sir-ree, I would; to my mind, Mr. Pressdent, a smoky chimney is no more to be compared to a scolding wife, than a little nigger is to a dark night."

Expounding the Law.—A Scotchman called at the house of Lawyer Fletcher, of Vermont, to consult that legal gentleman professionally. "Is the Squeer at home?" he inquired of the lawyer's lady who opened the door at his summons. He was answered negatively.

Disappointment was now added to trials of Scotia's son: but after a moment's consideration, a new thought relieved him: "mebby yourself can gie me the necessary information as well as squeer, seein as ye're his wife."

The kind lady readily promised to do so, if on learning the nature of his difficulty she found it in her power and the other proceed to statethe case as follows:

"Spooze ye was and auld white mear and I borry ye to gang to mill, a grist back, an' we should get no farder than Stair Hill, when, all at once, ye should back up and rear up, and pitch up and kneel down backwards and break yer dearned auld neck, who'd pay for ye? Not I—dearn me if I would!"

The lady smilingly told him as she closed the door, that as he had himself passed sentence on the case, advice would be entirely superfluous.

DIED,

In this County, on the 2d inst. Tobias Jones, in the 76th year of his age.

In Johnston county, a few minutes after 1 o'clock, on the morning of the 24th ultimo, James H. Hinnant, son of Bryan R. and Edney Hinnant, in the 14th year of his age. He was a dutiful and affectionate son; he was remarkable for the mildness of his disposition, the steadiness and correctness of his deportment; he possessed a sprightly intellect, and was noted by his teachers for his aptness in learning; he was affectionate to his schoolmates; and peculiarly tender towards his sister. He expressed much affection towards her and his parents on his death bed, and a strong desire to recover and remain with them. Having retained his senses and conversed to the last; and being conscious of his approaching death, his parting words were tender and affecting in the highest degree. He was beloved by all who knew him; and has left his doting parents and sister in the deepest grief. But they sorrow not as those who have no hope.

He's gone—the noble gift of God—
Called back to Him who had given;
Bow parents, sister! kiss the rod!
'Tis yours—his is the bliss of Heaven.

A Reformed Medical Convention,

WILL be held in the City of Raleigh, on the 11th day of June next, at which all the Reformed Eclectic Physicians in the State are requested to attend, for the purpose of consulting together for mutual benefit; of forming a State Reformed Medical Society, and taking steps to protect themselves and their fellow citizens from that odious and oppressive monopoly, by law, by the Mineral Doctors, of all the emoluments of the practice of Physic and Surgery in the State, which is now being sought, and thus depriving the people of their rightful liberty of chosing their own Doctor and methods of treatment when they are sick. The season being fine, and the great political Conventions then being held there, will give additional interest to a visit to the Capitol at that time. It is hoped, therefore, that every Reformed Physician in the State will attend this Convention.

By request of many Physicians,
SIDNEY WELLER.

DUDLEY'S

Anti-Rheumatic OIL.

A certain and speedy Cure for Chronic Rheumatism, Spasms of the Muscles, Ligaments, and Back, and for Sprains, Bruises, and Contusions.

The history of this invaluable medicine is remarkable. It has risen into notice, and established a high and just reputation in the region of country where it has been tried, ALONE from the surprising and numerous cures it has effected The Proprietor Dr. Samuel Dudley, Hospital Surgeon, on the Island of Portsmouth, North Carolina, has used it with unfailing success, both in the Hospital, and in his private practice about twenty years. During that period it has been attracting public attention, and gradually rising into general and high reputation in all that region of country, solely, by the surprising certainty of the cures it has uniformely effected. Until very recently, it has never been advertised, nor have any pains been taken to extend its celebrity. Its high reputation therefore is permanent, because it is based upon surprising and UNFAILING experiments alone The Proprietor encouraged by its eminent success in cases of Chronic Rheumatism, and by the advice of his friends, and he will add actuated by a desire to extend as far as possible the benefits of its healing properties is now taking measures to make its wonderful properties more generally known All he asks is a fair trial. It is now offered to the afflicted in the Eastern portion of North Carolina. The proprietor is perfectly willing to put the result of its success or failure upon its success or failure in curing or failure to cure any case of Chronic Rheumatism, or other affection for which it is recommended

Certificates from highly respectable sources like the following, can be multiplied to almost any extent A few are appended.

The following has been publicly furnished by that highly esteemed citizen Col. Joshua Taylor of Beaufort county N. C. well know as a valuable member of our State Senate, and at present Collector of the Port of Ocracoke, North Carolina:—

"At the request of Dr. Samuel Dudley of Portsmouth, North Carolina, I state that some years ago one of my sons had a severe and protracted attack of Rheumatism, and by using his "Anti-Rheumatic Oil" he was relieved

It gives me great pleasure to say, that besides this case, I have heard of others which convince me that this oil is very valuable in cases of Rheumatism.

JOSHUA TAYLOE.

Washington, N. C., 1848.

The High Sheriff of the County of Carteret, has placed the following at the proprietors disposal—

This may certify, that I have been for many years afflicted with Rheumatism, and recently had an attack in the neck, and by the application of 'Dudley's Anti-Rheumatic Oil' only three times, was in a few hours perfectly relieved.

GEORGE DILL.

Beaufort, N. C. Sept, 1848.

The following letter is from a respectable Druggist, I. Disosway, of Newbern, North Carolina.

Dr. S Dudley,

Dear Sir,—I have sold out almost all of the Anti-Rheumatic Oil sent me, and as I do not wish to get out of it, I should be glad if you would send me another supply. I can speak in the most decided term, in reference to the merits of the Oil. I have never known it to fail. It has been used by one of my kw the best results, by Mr Guion, late a member of the Legislature, and others and always with decided effect. I know of a person who has been unable to move a foot without assistance, who was cured in less than three days, and with using one bottle only. I can recommend it with confidence, and shall loose no opportunity of so doing. Yours, &c. I. DISOSWAY.

Mitchell's Eye Salve.

To the Public.

THE concurrent testimony of men of integrity and worth is the best evidence we can have of any fact of which we have no cognizance ourselves. The great advantages possessed by this article over all other, are—its CERTAINTY, SAFETY, CONVENIENCE and ECONOMY. All physicians admit that great danger is to be apprehended from drugging the eye when in an inflamed and unhealthy state. In the use of this salve this objection is entirely removed, as no harm can possibly result from its use: it being in all cases applied to the EXTERNAL portions of the eye, thereby avoiding all the inconvenience, pain and danger, which necessarily attend the introduction of any pungent article INTO the eye. Its activity in subduing inflamation is so great that but few cases require the use of more than one bottle to effect a perfect cure. For sale at this office.

Jan. 10, 1850. 11-tf

Only 25 cents per box,

FOR the cure of Headache, Giddiness, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism, Piles, Heartburn, Worms, Dyspepsia, Cholera Morbus, Pains in the Back and Limbs, Liver complaint, Rising in the throat, Fevers of all kinds, Colds, Gout, Gravel, Female Complaints, Nervous complaints, and all other diseases arising from impurities of the blood, and morbid secretions of the liver and Stomach.

Every disease to which the human frame is subject, originates from impurities of the blood or derangement of digestive organs.

Dr. Gordon's Family Pills, being compounded exclusively of such ingredients as nature intended should operate on the impurities of the Human System. Strike at the root of the disease, removing all impurities from the body, opening the pores externally, separating all foreign and obnoxious particles from the chyle, so that the blood, of which it is the origin, must be thoroughly pure and necessarily securing a free and vigorous action to the Heart, Lungs, Liver and Stomach, thereby restoring health, by opening the pores, cleansing the veins and arteries, unimpeding all the natural veins and purifying the blood; they render the system not only thoroughly sound, but also impervious to disease, even when all other means have failed.

Within the last twelve months, more than one hundred cases of the most aggravated forms of Dyspepsia have been cured by the medicine, where rigid dieting, the Blue Pill, and almost every other means had been resorted to without any benefit, and when death stared its miserable victim fully in the face. If Dr. Gordon's PILLS were not adapted to the cure of any but this horrid malady, their uniform success in this disease alone would be sufficient to 'waft on to fame' the name of their inventor, as a benefactor of his species. This medicine never fails to cure the worst cases of piles in one week!
